

- Amalgam contains free mercury was discovered & demonstrated by IAOMT member Roger Eichmann.
- An extracted tooth containing an old amalgam filling is held in the light of a miner's blacklight, which is nothing but phosphors, [a pure mercury vapour discharge lamp].
- By the principles of atomic absorption, the only cold vapour that could absorb the wavelength of mercury shadow would be that of mercury itself.
- The filling was dipped in 110° F water, to simulate the type of mild heating one would expect from chewing, grinding the teeth, or drinking hot liquids. The smoke visibly emerging is the shadow of mercury vapour.
